Listen to a track from the shapeshifting US musician's new vocal work Solo Voice I-X

Prolific sound artist C Spencer Yeh came up in the US Midwest city of Cincinnati, Ohio. He established himself with a slew of recordings released under his Burning Star Core moniker on his own DroneDisco imprint, as well as playing with a rotating cast of underground cohorts, like Hair Police's Trevor Tremaine and Robert Beatty, John Wiese, Chris Corsano, and more. Since relocating to New York City, Yeh continues to work on art and music projects with a variety of collaborators.

But Solo Voice I-X is Yeh acting alone on his first LP devoted entirely to the voice, in this case his own. It is released on vinyl by Primary Information.
